IRON AGE EXPERIENCE

Beacons of the Past* presents a prehistoric afternoon!

With Kim Biddulph:

Meet an Iron Age woman with lots of chores that need doing. The flax needs spinning, new bone needles need to be made, the grain needs to be ground into flour and the cream churned into butter. If you come and help out, maybe she'll share her meal of bean and seed stew, wild yeast baked bread, freshly made cheese and herb-flavoured ale. You might even be welcomed into the Catuvellauni tribe with woad face paint!

Mike Farley:

All kinds of stuff can turn up on archaeological dig. We could do with a bit of help to sort out some bits in our 'Muddled Museum'!

David Willis:

How did ancient people make rope and string? From nettles and other plants! Come make a bracelet to take home from plants that might surprise you!

We also have ancient flint tool knapping, Iron Age coin-making, and much more!
